BEACHES

Cape Town’s beaches have been voted among the best in the world – and for good reason. On one side we have the Atlantic Ocean, and the other, the Indian Ocean, each with its own unique characteristics. The two meet, not quite at Cape Point – that happens at the southernmost tip of Africa at Cape Agulhas – but in a fluid blending of currents in False Bay where the icy Atlantic is softened by the warm Indian.

WEATHER

The Cape Town region enjoys a Mediterranean climate, but also subject to the special factors of its southern latitude. During the winter months, (April to September) north and northwest winds backing to the southwest are frequent. In the summer, (October to March) the prevailing wind is from the southeast, popularly known as the Cape Doctor, which can reach gale force speeds at times.
